RESPONSIBLE TOURISM in Cape Town
WHAT is responsible tourism?
Imagine that tourism in Cape Town:

- Takes care of our unique and fragile natural environment, making our city one of the most sought after urban areas in the world to live, work and visit.
- Does no harm to children, women or communities.
- Sees Capetonians earning an income for their families, as owners of tourism businesses, employees of tourism companies, or selling products and services to the tourism industry.
- Offers every Capetonian a fair opportunity to be a part of the tourism industry.
- Helps to protect and showcase our unique cultural heritage.
- Provides Capetonians with a say in how tourism affects their lives and opportunities.
- Has tourists interacting with Capetonians, visiting our favourite local places, and learning more about who we are, what makes us special, and what concerns us.
- Is accessible to people with disabilities and respects everyone’s culture, and helps us celebrate our individuality as residents.

Local fishing families share centuries of traditions and most often humorous tales with visitors to Kalk Bay Harbour. Fanrada Isaacs shows off a freshly caught Cape Yellowtail (Seriola lalandi). Yellowtail is currently listed as a green species by SASSI. Green-listed species, as opposed to Orange or Red, are a good choice to eat because they are more plentiful and they can cope better with fishing pressure. You can SMS the name of the fish you’re thinking of tucking into to 079 649 8795 and you’ll get a response of either Red, Orange or Green. www.sass.co.za

THE 2002 CAPE TOWN DECLARATION ON RESPONSIBLE TOURISM IN DESTINATIONS DEFINES RESPONSIBLE TOURISM AS TOURISM ‘THAT CREATES BETTER PLACES FOR PEOPLE TO LIVE IN, AND BETTER PLACES TO VISIT’. THIS IS WHAT WE ASPIRE TO FOR TOURISM IN CAPE TOWN.

Is responsible tourism different to sustainable tourism?

RESPONSIBLE TOURISM AND SUSTAINABLE TOURISM HAVE THE SAME GOAL, NAMELY SUSTAINABILITY, AND THEY SHARE THE SAME PILLARS - ENVIRONMENTAL INTEGRITY, SOCIAL JUSTICE AND MAXIMUM LOCAL ECONOMIC BENEFIT. RESPONSIBLE TOURISM ASKS INDIVIDUALS, ORGANISATIONS, GOVERNMENTS AND BUSINESSES TO TAKE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THEIR ACTIONS AND THE EFFECTS OF THEIR ACTIONS. EVERYONE INVOLVED MUST BE RESPONSIBLE FOR SUSTAINABILITY.
What responsible tourism is NOT
Not another type of 'niche tourism'

RESPONSIBLE TOURISM IS ABOUT THE LEGACY AND THE CONSEQUENCES OF TOURISM - FOR THE ENVIRONMENT, LOCAL PEOPLE AND LOCAL ECONOMIES.

Doesn’t only take place in protected natural environments

ANY TOURISM BUSINESS, WHETHER LOCATED IN A THRIVING URBAN METROPOLIS LIKE CENTRAL CAPE TOWN, A NEIGHBOURING SUBURB OR COASTAL TOWN, CAN BE A RESPONSIBLE TOURISM OPERATION.

Not something only big business must do

THE SMALLEST OF OWNER-MANAGED TOURISM BUSINESSES CAN PRACTICE RESPONSIBLE TOURISM.

Not a 'fad'

OPERATORS, DESTINATIONS AND INDUSTRY ORGANISATIONS IN THE UNITED KINGDOM, UNITED STATES, THE GAMBIA, INDIA, SRI LANKA, NEW ZEALAND, FRANCE, AUSTRALIA, GERMANY AND MANY MORE ARE ALREADY PRACTISING RESPONSIBLE TOURISM, AND THIS LIST IS GROWING. WORLD RESPONSIBLE TOURISM DAY IS CELEBRATED ANNUALLY DURING NOVEMBER, ENDORSED BY THE UNITED NATIONS WORLD TOURISM ORGANISATION (UNWTO) AND THE WORLD TRAVEL AND TOURISM COUNCIL (WTTC).

WHY is responsible tourism important?
Responsible tourism makes business sense

For the past several decades, increasing numbers of consumers have started to look at the reputation and responsibility of the companies they buy from; they want to have ‘guilt-free’ holidays. This is a market trend tourism businesses cannot ignore. Those practising responsible tourism will have a powerful competitive advantage.

Responsible tourism is central to South Africa’s tourism policy

The 1994 White Paper on the Development and Promotion of Tourism in South Africa identified ‘Responsible Tourism’ as the guiding principle for tourism development in our country. The national responsible tourism guidelines were published in 2003. A minimum standard for responsible tourism will be launched in 2011.

Responsible tourism and the Tourism BBBEE (broad-based black economic empowerment) Scorecard

By adopting responsible tourism policies and practices, tourism business can make significant progress in complying with the scorecard. At least four of the seven key indicators on the 2009 Tourism BBBEE Scorecard – skills development, preferential procurement, enterprise development and social involvement – are also central to the national responsible tourism guidelines published in 2003.

For these and other solid reasons Cape Town made a significant commitment to responsible tourism, which is set out in the 2009 Cape Town Responsible Tourism Policy and Action Plan.
Cape Town’s responsible tourism campaign

Over the past two years, the City of Cape Town’s Tourism Department has been working closely with other City Departments and the local Tourism Industry to develop a responsible tourism plan for Cape Town. The City believes that a successful plan will only emerge if the industry and destination stakeholders devise it together.

The Table Mountain National Park lies in the heart of the Cape Floral Kingdom, which is a global biodiversity hot spot. Biodiversity [species richness] is a key tourism asset and fundamental to its sustained growth. Intact and healthy ecosystems form the cornerstone of Cape Town’s product offering and helps to attract millions of tourists each year. Making visitors to the city, as well as local residents aware of the importance and value of biodiversity in ecosystem functioning as well as its contribution to human health and wellbeing is actively pursued.

SEVEN PRIORITY DESTINATION ISSUES WERE IDENTIFIED AS A STARTING POINT:

* Conservation of water resources
* Energy efficiency
* Integrated waste management
* Preferential procurement
* Enterprise development
* Skills development
* Social development

In 2009, the city adopted its responsible tourism policy and action plan aimed at the development of a sustainable and successful city. These include a biodiversity strategy to conserve the city's unique and endangered natural habitats, an electricity-saving campaign aimed at local residents, green building guidelines, water and waste management bylaws, a smart living and smart events handbook, the development of a new public transportation system, and more.

Later in September 2009, the city adopted a responsible tourism charter signed by government and trade associations (The Federated Hospitality Association of South Africa (Fedhasa), the Southern Africa Tourism Services Association (Satsa), the South African Association for the Conference Industry (Saacci) and Cape Town Tourism. The charter commits each signatory to work actively on the seven destination issues.

The next steps in the campaign are to promote awareness of responsible tourism among residents, visitors and stakeholders; facilitate the implementation of responsible tourism practices in tourism businesses, collect data and report on progress.

Cape Town is recognised as a world leader among destinations in implementing responsible tourism, highlighted by a win in the best destination category in the 2009 Responsible Tourism Awards. However, this does not imply that Cape Town is truly a responsible destination in practice, or that key stakeholders have appropriate levels of awareness and understanding of responsible tourism.

Bicycle tours have become popular in many of Cape Town’s communities as they have a lower carbon footprint and allow visitors a friendlier way to get around, while supporting local bike shops.
